

Sharing a Skill With Your Team

Handing off your exact workflow, not just a description of it

The Core Idea

A SKILL.md file is portable. Hand someone the actual file, and they get your exact formatting logic — without you sitting there explaining it live.

Build It

1. Locate and export the skill's file.
2. Share the file itself with your teammate, not just a verbal description.
3. Have them add or import it on their own account.
4. Test with their own example — without walking them through it live.

THE SILENT TEST

If your teammate needs you in the room to make it work, the skill isn't done yet — the description still has a gap.