PATCHING EXPERIENCE

RIGHT SHOULDER & THIGH PAIN

SHOULDER & RIGHT THIGH PAIN

Shared By Bob from USA, received on 12 June, 2015

One of my most challenging patching experiences was with a woman that was thrown from a horse hurting her right shoulder and right thigh. I have always been taught to work on the worst pain first so I started with the shoulder. I used the cross method, added glutathione, carnosine, aeon, etc. and nothing worked. And, of course, I was in front of a room full of people who were watching the patches not work! After about 20 minutes, I thought, "Maybe the two pains are connected." So I placed the white patch directly on the pain in her thigh. She got really dizzy for a few seconds and had to sit down. I was a bit concerned and asked her how she felt.. She said as soon as I put the patch on her thigh, she felt a wave move through her body and when the wave went away, so did the pain. I've used this technique of working with pain in two separate locations resulting from the same incident since then and have had a great deal of success getting rid of both pains quickly.

RIGHT SHOULDER & THIGH PAIN OUR INTERPRETATION

STEP 1: In cases of having 2 areas of pain simultaneously, First, place an ICE WAVE Tan at Point of Pain of higher intensity. In this example at the Right Shoulder.

STEP 2: Then, place an ICE WAVE White at Point of Pain of lower intensity. In this example at the Right Thigh.

AMAZING EXPERIENCE

BABY'S POSITION AT LABOUR

BABY'S POSITION AT LABOUR

Shared By Gabriel Diaz Enrico

This personal experience does not involve patching, and I've decided to share it because it might be helpful to many in cases of labour.

My first child's name is Mar, and 5 minutes before the labour was about to start, the Dr. said: "The Baby is not in position. I'll come back in 5 minutes and if still isn't, we will help her...", Help her?..., well, that's the worst option ever (In my opinion)... anyway, Dr. was gone for a moment so, I took my car key and pressed firmly with it BL67 position on my wife's left foot, after a while I changed to BL67 position on my wife's right foot, well, nothing happened... Then, I started again at the left foot and suddenly my wife shouted: "SHE MOVED!!"... Dr. came back, saw the situation and said: "Mmhh, the Baby is now in position, we are ready to start...".

Just by pressing the right Acupuncture Point. Beautiful...
