Franchise Overview

Contents Restoration that Stands Out from the Rest

Ever since he watched his own parents go through the devastation and loss of a house fire, Eric Ten Eyck, founder and CEO of Archive Contents Restoration, knew he wanted to find better ways to help people who have just experienced a disaster. He recognized there was a need for a contents restoration company that could do it all under one roof.

This is where we come into play. Archive Contents Restoration is the only national brand capable of restoring soft goods, as well as furniture, appliances, photographs, documents and everything in between. Eric has found a niche market within the restoration industry and, in the process, created a business model and franchise opportunity like no other.

Training

Archive makes it so easy to open and operate your location. We will work with you hand in hand to find, secure, open and operate your location. We will train you and your staff in every aspect of operating an Archive location and will always be by your side to support and consult you. Archive franchise training takes place both at our headquarters in Santa Ana, CA and in your market. Your trip to California includes classroom training as well as hours of “hands-on” experience in the field. You’ll learn hiring and HR, marketing, management and much, much more.

But we’re not done. We’ll come out to your location as your location is being readied to open. There, we will help you train your first employees, assist with your initial marketing efforts and help you with your soft opening.

Ideal Candidate

The Ideal Restoration Franchisee is Compassionate. If you’re looking for a business model that provides an opportunity for financial stability and fulfillment, Archive Contents Restoration could be the perfect fit. You don’t have to be a restoration expert in order to succeed. However, you do have to want to help people. In this industry, compassion is key. It’s important to remember our job is about more than restoring items – it’s about providing confidence and hope to those who have just experienced a flood, fire or other type of disaster. Are You a People Person? Genuinely caring about the people you work with is a must – that means your clients and your employees. Being a good manager is an important part of the job description for an Archive Contents Restoration franchisee. The ability to hire the right people makes all the difference. You need to know how to put together a team of individuals that have empathy and expertise. The work they do and the character they portray will be a representation of you as a business owner. With the right attitude and attributes, anyone can create their own legacy and maintain a comfortable lifestyle by joining the Archive Contents Restoration team.

The Industry

- The restoration industry, as a whole, is over 200 billion dollars annually.
- Water damage from just leaky or frozen pipes tops 10 billion.
- To put this in perspective, every day, 14,000 homeowners across the country experience water damage to their home.

- This makes water damage the 2nd most commonly filed insurance claim!
- Fire damage results in another 20 billion in damage every year.
- Every 24 seconds, a fire department somewhere, is responding to a fire.
- This means that there is well over 1 million fires every year causing damage across the U.S.
