One of the many unique benefits of our training program is our trainers. In addition to our training staff we have a long history of recruiting additional support at training from our operator base. Your questions are answered not by someone who sits behind a desk and tells you what you should do, but by an experienced operator who share their first hand knowledge, experience and passion for success with you.

TRAINING AND SUPPORT

Come Join Us For Training

We want to provide every new business owner with the optimal situation for success. Our team of experts have been training vending operators for over a quarter of a century and we have seen the adage KNOWLEDGE IS POWER proven again and again. We have created a process that allows us to transfer the decades of knowledge that we have acquired directly to you. We believe the hands-on, in-house training program that we have developed is the real “success factor” that separates our company and our clients from all others in the industry.

You leave training comfortable and confident in launching your new business.

TRAINING AND SUPPORT

Comprehensive Step-By-Step Plan to quickly gear up your business.

Training starts even before you show up for the mandatory training class. It starts with Pre-Training assignments during the Onboarding stage. Our comprehensive training provides everything you need to know to be successful in your new business. Our training program provides you with a springboard to success that places you above the competition and will accelerate the launch of your new business.

1.

A key area of our training is locating your machines. Shortly after the class you will meet our Location Team and will be provided with the tools and information you need to quickly learn the process for optimal locations for your machines.

2.

Virtual and face to face training. Our team of experts have been training vending operators for over a quarter of a century. We believe the hands-on, in-house training program that we have developed is the real “success factor” that separates our company and our clients from all others in the industry.

3.

Products are another key component to your success. We provide you with resources and industry information to help you gain an understanding of what products to choose and how to find them for your locations. As a vending machine operator you become a retailer, which allows you to purchase your products from the same local sources as your local convenience and grocery stores, thus allowing you to be competitively priced in your market.

4.

Understanding and leveraging the benefits of the industry leading technology is a key part of our proven program. You will receive training on this not only during classroom training but also via the Nayax on-line University and when working with your coach.

5.

Building relationships with other entrepreneurs, those that have a similar vision for their future is a valuable experience. The synergy that develops with each training group is a valuable benefit of attending training. New friendships develop that become a valuable support as you venture into the world of independence and business ownership.
